Public Administration Management Course

„The design of the Public Administration Management Course is a unique selling point for the Bavarian ministerial administration. A wide range of topics, an interdisciplinary approach and diversity in discussion with decision-makers from politics, administration, business, academia, culture and other areas of social life both at home and abroad help make this a truly unique one-year advanced training course. This groundbreaking training tool allows Bavarian public services to set standards.“

Thomas Gloßner

„The administration management course gives participants the opportunity to join a network of civil servants with a wide range of vocational qualifications and multifaceted tasks. These connections help me in dealing with complex tasks in my daily work as head teacher of a large high school. I was able to train my mental strategy during the course thanks to the group discussions on problems and solutions – using case examples from all areas of administration in Bavaria.“

Brigitte Grams-Loibl

Thinking and working on an interdisciplinary basis as a manager in public administration. The Public Administration Management Course is part of the cross-departmental LEAT Advanced Training Programme. Cross-departmental and interdisciplinary thinking is an essential prerequisite for managers to deal with the growing and increasingly complex tasks in public administration. As part of the Public Administration Management Course, prospective managers learn the skills required to master interdisciplinary tasks.

Course content

- Modern management methods and techniques tailored to the special requirements of public administration
- Personality development
- Specialist and cross-departmental teamwork, i.e. as part of projects or research
- Core political fields, e.g. the European Union, top research, environmental protection or education
- Intensive training in the foreign languages English, French or Italian
- Voluntary work in companies, social institutions and administrative bodies at home and abroad

Participants: 15-20 prospective managers from all Bavarian state ministries plus guests, for example from the state capital Munich or the state of Saxony.

Venue: Prinz-Carl-Palais, Munich

Duration: 10 months, Participants are released from service for the duration of the course. The course takes place every two years.

The advisory board ensures effective inter-generational discussion

The advisory board of the Public Administration Management Course ensures constant discussion between the organisers and former participants of the course. The twelve members are made up of participants from previous courses who now work in all areas of the state government.

The advisory board:

- Advises managing directors and course managers in their work.
- Provides ideas for how to develop the course, e.g. suggestions for the design and structure of the course content.
- Informs the managing directors and course managers about new developments in their specific management fields.
- Fosters discussion between participants of previous courses.
- Is always available to answer questions from course participants using their extensive experience – whether these relate to course content, careers or more personal issues.

The advisory board members offer their personal and professional experience as part of the programme, helping to ensure that the course content remains up to date.

The idea of a network is the focus of the Public Administration Management Course. In an effort to maintain and expand this network, all former participants meet once a year for a two-day seminar.

The alumni discuss personal experiences with top class speakers as well as the latest topics, such as:

- Nanotechnology
- New developments in brain research
- A new world economic order
- The regions India and China

European Excellence Programme

„An academic clarification of European issues, practical insights into political fields from specialists and language courses in English and French round out the training on offer. The course therefore optimally prepares participants for future work within the European environment.“ Dr. Stephan Bobe

„United in diversity“ – that is the motto of the European Union of 27 countries. The Union is incredible diverse, and not just in linguistic and cultural terms. The areas of politics debated on a European level are also diverse, as are the European institutions and mechanisms of European decision-making processes, both in theory and practice. The European Excellence Programme not only guarantees insights into this diversity in relation to the central fields of politics and mechanisms, it also offers high quality specialist keynote speeches in the fields of politics, culture and legal sciences. “ Kerstin Wollenschläger, M.A.

Boosting language and specialist knowledge on an extra-occupational basis. The European Excellence Programme is part of the cross-departmental LEAT Advanced Training Programme. The extra-occupational „European Excellence Programme“ allows managers in public administration to expand their language skills and specialist knowledge. This intensive training helps them to become versatile European experts.

Course content

- Skills in the foreign languages English and French
- Soft skills training
- Specialist seminars focusing on Europe
- Informational trips to Berlin and Strasbourg
- Internship in Brussels

Participants: 10-15 project managers from all state ministries with at least three years career experience

Location: Prinz-Carl-Palais, Munich

Duration: 12 months with, six five-day modules and weekly language courses after working hours

The Europe Evening

Twice a year, the Europe Evening offers participants the opportunity to discuss a range of topics relevant to Europe with other carefully selected experts. Previous speakers at the Europe Evening hosted in the Prinz Carl Palais include:

- Meghan Gregonis, Consul General of the United States of America
- Stefan Kornelius, Head of the Foreign Department at the Süddeutsche Zeitung newspaper
- Dr. Michael Diederich, Spokesman for the Management Board of HypoVereinsbank – UniCredit Bank AG, Country Chairman for Germany and Member of the Executive Management Committee of UniCredit
- Josef Saiger, B.A. M.A., Consul General of the Republic of Austria

Venue: Prinz Carl Palais, Munich

Participants: Alumni of the European Excellence Programme, as well as all departmental staff responsible for matters of European policy.

Mentoring programme

Logo Mentoring Programme

The Familienpakt Bayern (Bavarian Family Agreement), from the Bavarian State Government signals the improvements to come in balancing work and family life. Its aim is to adapt the world of work to changing life and family models. The ‘Career and Family’ mentoring programme is designed to help participants build the goals from Familienpakt into their own professional lives. This should be in keeping with the modern age, tangible and effective.

The focus is on an open and honest exchange between an experienced leader (mentor) and a more inexperienced colleague (mentee) concerning their personal and professional development. A mentee benefits from their mentor’s experience, builds their network, consolidates their career direction, and expands competencies and core skills. A mentor, in turn, gains new insights into the living and working environments of the next generation. They also are afforded a rare opportunity to reflect on their own career and leadership behaviour, expand their social and communication skills and establish new ideas from qualified junior staff. The participating authorities have the chance to lay the groundwork for a family-friendly work environment, and to further support the professional development of their leadership staff.

Participation requirements for mentors:

- Leadership role at a highest administrative authority or a subordinate authority
- Proven professional experience over many years
- Enjoys fostering young talent

The mentoring year

Kick-off event

Participants in the mentoring programme get to know each other and receive an initial introduction to the mentoring models and design.

Conversations between mentee and mentor

Tandems meet every four to six weeks for individual one- to two-hour discussions. This lasts for a year.

Supplementary programme:

- One to two workshops for mentees on topics such as career and life planning, time and self-management or networking as a success factor
- One to two workshops for mentors on topics such as counselling skills or new leadership styles
- Joint events for mentees and mentors, that include — for example — fireside chats with leading figures from all walks of life

Wrap-up event

A final chance to share experiences and report on results at the end of the mentoring year.

Building Bridges

Group of heads of Human Resources at Infineon Technologies AG.

The Introductions Programme Building Bridges is aimed at heads of human resources departments. At informal meetings, top civil servants can exchange ideas with human resource managers from non-governmental organisations and leading corporations. At the same time, these meetings also provide an opportunity for casual discussions with colleagues from other governmental areas. The agenda comprises current topics that include employee mobility, diversity and inclusion, Social Media, recruiting young talent, Human Resource developments and health management. The aim of the programme is to make new contacts and strengthen existing ones — or in other words — to Build Bridges.

So far, participants in this programme have visited the following companies:

- Allianz SE,

- Microsoft Germany GmbH,
- BMW,
- Knorr Bremse AG,
- Adidas Group Herzogenaurach,
- Infineon Technologies AG,
- Siemens AG,
- Wacker Chemie AG.

On the Pulse of Time

The seminar On the Pulse of Time (Am Puls der Zeit) is an advanced training series for top Bavarian civil servants in special functions. What's on offer targets civil servants who cannot participate in standard training sessions due to the special requirements demanded of their post. As a rule, they are rarely away from their post for more than a day and their training interests are very specific and differ significantly from the needs of standard heads of units or departments. These include in particular:

- Personal Advisors to the Ministers of State and Secretaries of State
- Heads of Office for the Ministers of State and Secretaries of State
- Heads of Office for the Director General
- Press Officers
- Parliamentary Liaison Officers

Seminar content

Participants receive insights and inspiration on current matters concerning science, business, culture and society in a concise one-day seminar. Additionally, everyday aspects of the post associated with demanding top leadership positions are covered. This is a highly specialised target group. So, naturally, the seminar offers participants the chance to benefit from the experience of others and build informal contacts. Changing seminar venues offer fresh perspectives into cultural, scientific and a variety of other institutions.

On the Pulse of Time — further education training series for top Bavarian civil servants in special functions.

Topics since 2015:

- ‚New agenda, new actors, new actions — Europe on the move‘
on 30 April 2015 at the Protestant Academy of Tutzing
